THE FORK IN THE ROAD

Far down the dusty road we see a band of youthful travelers approaching, for four years they have traveled together, over rough and smooth places, all working for one purpose, all working for one ideal. The guides leading the band signal, and ahead we can see a fork in the road.

Tingling with gaiety and laughter, we, the travelers, and our teachers the guides, pause by the fork in the road. When we depart again we will be without our guides, we will go alone. Vainly we look down the path to see where it leads, but there are turns in the road and we cannot see beyond.

Which path will we choose, and when we do choose one will it be the right one? We must not pick one at random. An experienced traveler always has a purpose, he does not wander aimlessly.

Ours has been a happy class. Those selected to lead us have been faithful to their trust, and we have all worked to the best of our ability for the interests of the school. As we have made a success of our High School years, so shall we make a success of our future years. We will choose the right path!

We take one last look at our friends, our teachers, our school, and those "Memories that bless and burn" run through our hearts and minds.

To those who have reached the fork in the road safely we sincerely wish that the road they choose will be pleasant, that their journey through life will be a successful and happy one.

OUR GUIDING LIGHT

Principal, Guide and Friend. Yes, Mr. Wiener has been all of these three to Freshmen, Sophomores, Juniors, and Seniors for twenty-five years. For twenty-five years, our Principal has rendered to the pupils of Central High School, a service which could never be duplicated. Such a service deserves the respect and love we all feel for him.

Just to say "Thank you, Mr. Wiener, for guiding us safely along the journey" would be insufficient. What then?

We can show our appreciation by going out into the world and making ourselves worthy of the teachings we have received in Central; by being upright, honest, and true citizens of our country; by following the conventions of the community, and to put to use all the helpful suggestions given by Mr. Wiener.

I could go on with praises for Mr. Wiener for pages and pages, but mere words could not let the world know how we honor our beloved Principal. So I'll terminate by wishing you, Mr. Wiener, continued happiness in the future which I know will be bright and long-lived.

LET'S RHYME

by Louis Sauro

There was a young man from Tibet
Who endeavored to play the cornet,
The cornet he blew
Till his face turned blue,—
A week later, there were rooms to let.

A pixilated man from Nabraxa,
One day tried to buy an old saxa,
He became very sore
When the man in the store,
Said he had to pay the sales taxa.

CAN YOU IMAGINE—

Katherine Hess—without Helen Robuck.
 John Di Pasquale—a poor dancer.
 George Goldenberg—without his winning personality.
 Frieda Friedman—without her friendly smile.
 Madeline Lamb—not talking.
 Doris Walther—not winning a reward for shorthand.
 Howard Katz—not sticking up for his rights.
 Doris Jirouschek—not studying.
 Elsie George—not reading a letter from Hackensack.
 Robert Dirk—not talking politics.
 Charlotte Meili—without her charm.
 Fred Shagner—without Charlotte Meili.
 Lillian Campbell—not dreaming of owning an orphan home.
 Anna May Brady—not dancing.
 Betty Potter—lose her voice.
 Harriet Paris—not dreaming about Hyman Goldberg.
 Hyman Goldberg—lose his taste for good clothes.
 George Hacker—not making a speech.
 Jack Bernstein—without a tall story.
 Paul Lipp—in a fatal accident marring his beauty.
 Iryne Cohn—stop talking.
 Dorothy Tsonas—bashful.
 Fanny Rosamilia—a teacher.
 Dave Chaimovich—with the same girl twice.
 Edward Mullen—going to History class.
 Florence Lloyd—being tall.
 Lena Finaldi—without Lena Melitto.
 Erma Koether—without Dorothy Johnson.
 Grace Graneri—doing her own homework.
 Angelina Pallante—without a cheery hello.
 Edward Schantz—conceited.
 Gertrude Riker—with an unfriendly smile.
 Angela Naturale—without an answer.
 Helen Ciletti—not being sweet and friendly.
 Al Lueddeke—without Helen Ciletti.

LOVE

by Howard Katz

Smouldering flames of other years
 Send their smokes curling thru my mind.

Scattered sparks light the dim shadows
 And from the recesses of my mind call forth the names of other loves.

Unwillingly, I remember gay times,
 An odd longing for the scenes of my childhood possesses me.

O, Love thou art a cruel master,
 There is no escape from thee
 Except in the solitude of my new love.
 He is gray and somber.
 He walks the earth in majesty.
 None know him but to fear him.
 He has called for me and I go willingly
 To forget desires
 To forget hate
 To forget love
 To meet Death.

JAKE

Howard Katz

the manager was late, the crew sat on the curb, they talked, they talked about joe dimaggio, they talked about jersey tomatoes, the manager arrived.

they put on white coats, they took off the doors, they set up the sidewalk stands, they worked with method, their cries rose chaotically, they were a curious group, they were different, they were mixed, they fought with and for each other.

the truck arrived, they unloaded, they didn't stall, they unloaded florida oranges, they unloaded maine potatoes, they unloaded washington apples, they unloaded spanish grapes.

the stackers made colorful displays, the big parade began.

they wanted their own markets, they had no money, they couldn't save, they had families, they lived on their salaries, the bookie came, they played the numbers.

it happened one day, Jake made a hit, he quit saturday night, they weren't surprised, they expected it, little was heard, they got rumors, he had opened in e. orange, he was doing o. k.

Jake was forgotten, Big Boss made his monthly visit, they were tense, he looked the place over, he took stock.

two men were transferred, they joined a new crew, they went to e. orange, they opened a new market.

Jake, he was two blocks away, they waited, they hoped, and B. B. took e. orange.

the manager was late, the crew sat on the curb, and Jake was there.

B. B. smoked his cigar, B. B. said, Jake is a good man, he is ambitious, give him a job.

and Jake put on a white coat, they all wore white coats, they all played the numbers, they all longed for e. orange.

From Principal to Parent

William Wiener

Dear Parents:

It is human to be forward looking. Looking earthwise obscures and limits world vision. Far-sight opens up religious, social, economic, and intellectual perspectives for the worth-while in life. Far-sightedness must be cultivated by all. Real goals which are to be reached must be set for ourselves. For the man without a goal in life, is like a being who has a soul and does not know its purpose. The mind must be used to discern between the useless and the worthwhile.

We possess the opportunities of the universe. We must not, by neglect of and indifference to education and training, bring on foreclosures of the mortgage against future opportunities.

Successful life depends upon our being forward looking, goal-set, and ready to take advantage of the God-given worthwhile things in life.

Sincerely yours,

WILLIAM WIENER,
Principal.

CLASS WILL

We, the class of January, 1938, of Central High School, City of Newark, County of Essex, and State of New Jersey; being of sound mind, memory, and understanding, do make and publish this our last will and testament, in manner following:

FIRST: To the faculty we leave the memory of ourselves to fill the cavity created by our graduation.

SECOND: We hereby give and bequeath to the care of Mr. Wiener, our principal, a fund of four (4) pennies to be intelligently invested, and the interest thereof to be given to those in dire need of a penny for Miss Gordon's late slips.

THIRD: To the Sophomores we do hereby give the vapors issuing from the Chemistry Laboratory that they may breathe thereof, and grow strong.

FOURTH: To the 4B's we leave the very pleasant feeling of importance which we have had for five months.

FIFTH: To Mr. Gannon, our coach, we leave the money we collected from selling elevator tickets, the said sum to be used for establishing a milk fund to grow bigger and better football men.

SIXTH: To the starving Armenians who are lucky enough to have a lunch period we leave our two Cafeterias.

SEVENTH: To the entire student body we leave Mr. Wakefield to direct traffic on the second floor.

EIGHTH: To the Freshies, we leave the privilege of looking at our faces on the first floor wall, and our names carved on the lunch room tables.

NINTH: To the Class of June, 1938, we leave the Indian Head Penny, left us by the Class of June, 1937.

TENTH: To everyone we leave our best wishes.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF we have hereunto subscribed our mark, and affixed ourselves at the City of Newark, County of Essex, State of New Jersey.

CLASS PROPHECY

Hello, friends of the radio audience. We greet you from the Grand Ballroom of the Hotel New Yorker, where we are celebrating the reunion of the Central High School's Class of January, 1938. As I look over the crowds that are milling about, I can't help noticing the changes that ten years have brought to my old classmates. Just entering the Ballroom I see Howard Katz, the well-known college professor of History, with Harriet Paris. Right behind them is John Di Pasquale, who has just won in the Olympics as a runner, with his manager, George Goldenberg. As a side line, when he isn't managing John, he owns a first class jewelry shop. Over in one corner under a bank of palm trees I see Erma Koethe, Doris Jirouschek and Dorothy Johnson who are in a well established business together. I guess that they will always remain the "three musketeers." Among the entertainers I can distinguish Betty Potter the vocal star; Anna May Brady and Betty Bertucci the two dancing stars, and much to my amazement I find out that the Master of Ceremonies is none other than the old maestro, George Hacker. In the midst of the orchestra I spotted Shirley Banner tinkling away on those piano keys.

There are many married couples here with us tonight. I see Helen Ciletti and Al Lueddekke who have been married for four years. Into our midst a new couple has arrived. They are none other than Elsie George and her husband, E. B. from Hackensack, who have been married for eight years. In a secluded corner I see Lillian Campbell, who owns an orphan home, with Joe Stolfi. Well, well, look who's here. It's Robert Dirk, who is candidate for the Assembly.

Charlotte Meili is here with Fred Shagner, who has made quite a success in Hollywood, which can also be said about Paul Lipp. Hyman Goldberg, who was voted the best dressed man in the world, and Iryne Cohn. Of course, as usual, there always have to be several bachelors in a graduating class. It seems to me that Edward Schantz, Harold Bone and Dave Chaimovich are the most eligible bachelors of the present day. Especially Edward Schantz, who is rather shy and bashful. Or is he? Dave Chaimovich decided to remain a bachelor because he has been disappointed in love too much.

I've just seen the chorus girls and much to my surprise I saw Charlotte Donaldson, Katherine Hess, Madeline Lamb, Florence Powers, Helen Robuck, Ruth Reinhardt, a dancing sensation, and Dolores Walsh. Frieda Friedman is here also. Her teeth and her smile made her fortune. She poses for dental ads. Steffie Chudov sketches pictures for several magazines well known to everybody.

Angela Naturale and Doris Walther have opened a modern Secretarial and Business School. Several of the graduates of January 1938 are now teaching in the same school. Among them I find Angelina Pallante, Beverly Dunbach, Fanny Rosamilia and Marie Stumpf. Arger Hanos is a professional football hero and the idol of many girls.

Time is growing short, so, folks, I am signing off and will be back at the next reunion in 1950. So until 1950 Good night! ! Take it away C. H. S.
